Fund and Market Commentary

The S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Accumulation Index returned 3.61% in December while the Alpha Small Companies Fund lagged. The best sector performance came from Utilities and Energy, while Healthcare and Telecom Services underperformed. Since inception, the Fund has consistently outperformed its benchmark.

The September quarter saw the Australian economy, as measured by Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growth, declined by 0.5%, the slowest growth rate since the global financial crisis. This was mainly caused by the low government spending, housing investment and net exports. In the 2016-17 Mid-Year Economic and Fiscal Outlook (MYEFO), budget deficit has been revised down by $600million to $36.5 billion and the government is expecting a return to surplus in 2020-21. Net debt as a proportion of GDP is projected to reach its highest level at 19% in 2018-19. The softer inflation and wages growth has adverse impacts on the government tax receipts. As with continuous spare capacity in the labour market, household incomes and domestic prices are forecast to grow softly. Anticipated improvements in corporate profitability within the mining sector, caused by increasing iron ore and coal prices, was not enough to offset the weaker growth in aggregate wages and non-mining sectors' profits. In the meantime, the commodity prices were regarded as 'volatile and a key uncertainty'. The RBA Index of Commodity was indicated to increase by 8.1% in December. China's Caixin Purchasing Managers Index rose by 1 point to 51.9 during December with output expanding at the fastest pace in six years or so. The Chinese manufacturing economy continued to grow, but investors are still monitoring the consistency of the trend.

In structuring the Alpha Small Companies Fund, Alpha Fund Managers seek to select managers demonstrating a proven track record in managing risk and generating long-term outperformance. Alpha Fund Managers blend these managers to create portfolios that can achieve consistent, absolute and relative performances, irrespective of where we are in the market cycle.

Investment Objective

The Alpha Australian Small Companies Fund may exhibit a relatively 'benchmark unaware' process in pursuit of superior returns, i.e. the fund may not invest into stocks just because they are in the benchmark, thus the composition and returns of the portfolio may deviate significantly from that of the benchmark.

Alpha Fund Managers seek to achieve this objective in each of the Alpha Funds by the blending of a small number of high conviction investment managers, each with a different investment process. This is done so in a complementary manner, so as to produce consistent outperformance with similar or less risk than the benchmark.

About Alpha Fund Managers

Alpha Fund Managers' investment philosophy is based on the premise that there are particular investment managers that have the ability to consistently generate "alpha" over the medium to long-term, and through all financial market cycles irrespective of any style bias (growth vs. value, large cap vs. small cap, etc.). "Alpha" in this context is defined as an investment manager's unique ability to select a portfolio of securities that differs from and outperforms its benchmark on a risk-adjusted basis. In other words, it is an investment manager's ability to beat the index. Alpha Fund Managers' investment process is based on a balanced approach to quantitative and qualitative research and analysis techniques to assess and select the underlying investment managers in each Alpha Fund Series fund. Alpha Fund Managers seek to add value by selecting investment managers who demonstrate a high-level of investment conviction, unique investment processes and a proven record in managing risk and generating long-term "alpha" over full market cycles. Alpha Fund Managers then blend these managers to create portfolios that can achieve consistent, absolute and relative performances, irrespective of where we are in the market cycle.
