Fund and Market Commentary

The S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Accumulation Index fell 1.19% in November while the Alpha Small Companies Fund lagged. The best sector performance came from Financials and Utilities, while Healthcare and Telecom Services underperformed. Since inception, the Fund has consistently outperformed its benchmark.

In recent economic news, the Australian Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growth rate dropped 0.5% unexpectedly, compared to an upwardly revised 0.6% growth rate last quarter, due to weak investments from both private and public sectors. The latest quarterly inflation rate rose to 1.3%, while the unemployment rate remained at 5.6%. The RBA Index of Commodity Prices increased by 10.20% in November led by prices of coking coal and iron ore. Thanks to Chinese stimulus, Australian mining stocks continued to appreciate. On the 29th, OPEC members agreed to cut oil production by 1.2 million barrels per day (mbd) to around 32.5 mbd starting from next January, which strengthened the expectation of the market and led to a rise in oil prices.

Following the United States (US) presidential election, the S&P/ASX Small Ordinaries Accumulation index fell by 2.10% on Wednesday the 9th. Even though it quickly rallied back to flat the day after, the monthly return was volatile and ended up with a negative figure. Given the strong job numbers in the US and increasing inflation, market participants anticipated that the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) would make a 25 or more basis point rate hike in mid-December. The Australian Dollar (AUD) dropped by 1.79%, ending the month at 0.7474 United States (US) cents.

In structuring the Alpha Small Companies Fund, Alpha Fund Managers seek to select managers demonstrating a proven track record in managing risk and generating long-term outperformance. Alpha Fund Managers blend these managers to create portfolios that can achieve consistent, absolute and relative performances, irrespective of where we are in the market cycle.

Investment Objective

The Alpha Australian Small Companies Fund may exhibit a relatively 'benchmark unaware' process in pursuit of superior returns, i.e. the fund may not invest into stocks just because they are in the benchmark, thus the composition and returns of the portfolio may deviate significantly from that of the benchmark.

Alpha Fund Managers seek to achieve this objective in each of the Alpha Funds by the blending of a small number of high conviction investment managers, each with a different investment process. This is done so in a complementary manner, so as to produce consistent outperformance with similar or less risk than the benchmark.

About Alpha Fund Managers

Alpha Fund Managers' investment philosophy is based on the premise that there are particular investment managers that have the ability to consistently generate "alpha" over the medium to long-term, and through all financial market cycles irrespective of any style bias (growth vs. value, large cap vs. small cap, etc.). "Alpha" in this context is defined as an investment manager's unique ability to select a portfolio of securities that differs from and outperforms its benchmark on a risk-adjusted basis. In other words, it is an investment manager's ability to beat the index. Alpha Fund Managers' investment process is based on a balanced approach to quantitative and qualitative research and analysis techniques to assess and select the underlying investment managers in each Alpha Fund Series fund. Alpha Fund Managers seek to add value by selecting investment managers who demonstrate a high-level of investment conviction, unique investment processes and a proven record in managing risk and generating long-term "alpha" over full market cycles. Alpha Fund Managers then blend these managers to create portfolios that can achieve consistent, absolute and relative performances, irrespective of where we are in the market cycle.
